

POLICE CIRCULAR ORDER No. 30

Post-mortem in deaths due to electrical accident.

It has come to notice that in some recent fatal electrical accidents in factories and installations, no post-mortem examinations were held with the result that later it was impossible to conclude whether the men died as the result of electrocution or for some other reason. It is clearly most important that post-mortem examination be made in every case when a death of this nature is reported. These instructions must be rigidly observed in future.

Manual Reference

Rule 204 and 205

(Previous Police Circular Order No. 7 of 1949)